Mega Trends and Industry 4.0 Challenge the Engineering Organisation

Fahrzeugentwicklung heraus

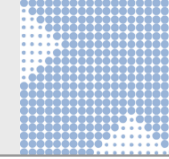

Highly integrated and flexible frame conditions require agility during developmental period

Cross linking with several industries reduce the development period

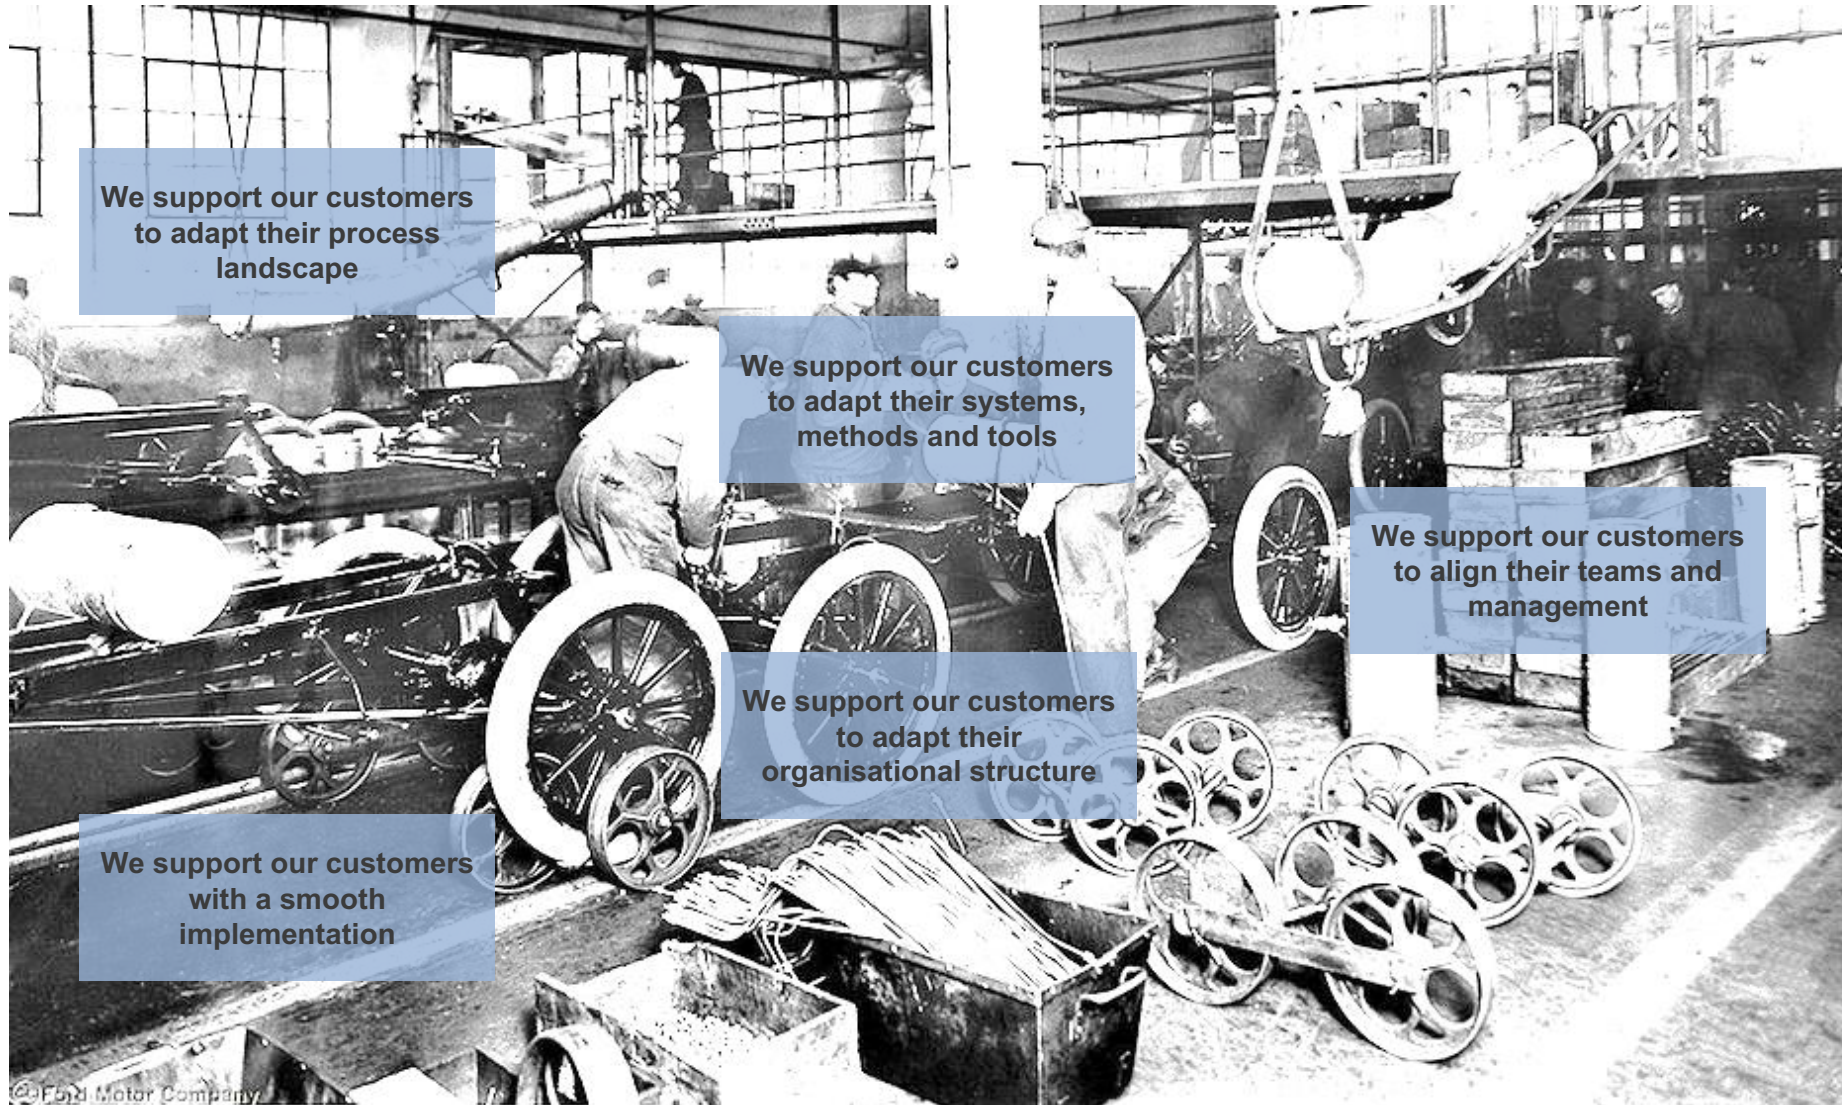

Intelligence and integration in engineering must be at eye level with manufacturing

Processes, methods and KPIs must get adapted

Maturity management and agile development methods have to be combined

The Engineering Organisation Adapts its Environment

We support our customers to adapt their process landscape

We support our customers to adapt their systems, methods and tools

We support our customers to align their teams and management

We support our customers to adapt their organisational structure

We support our customers with a smooth implementation
